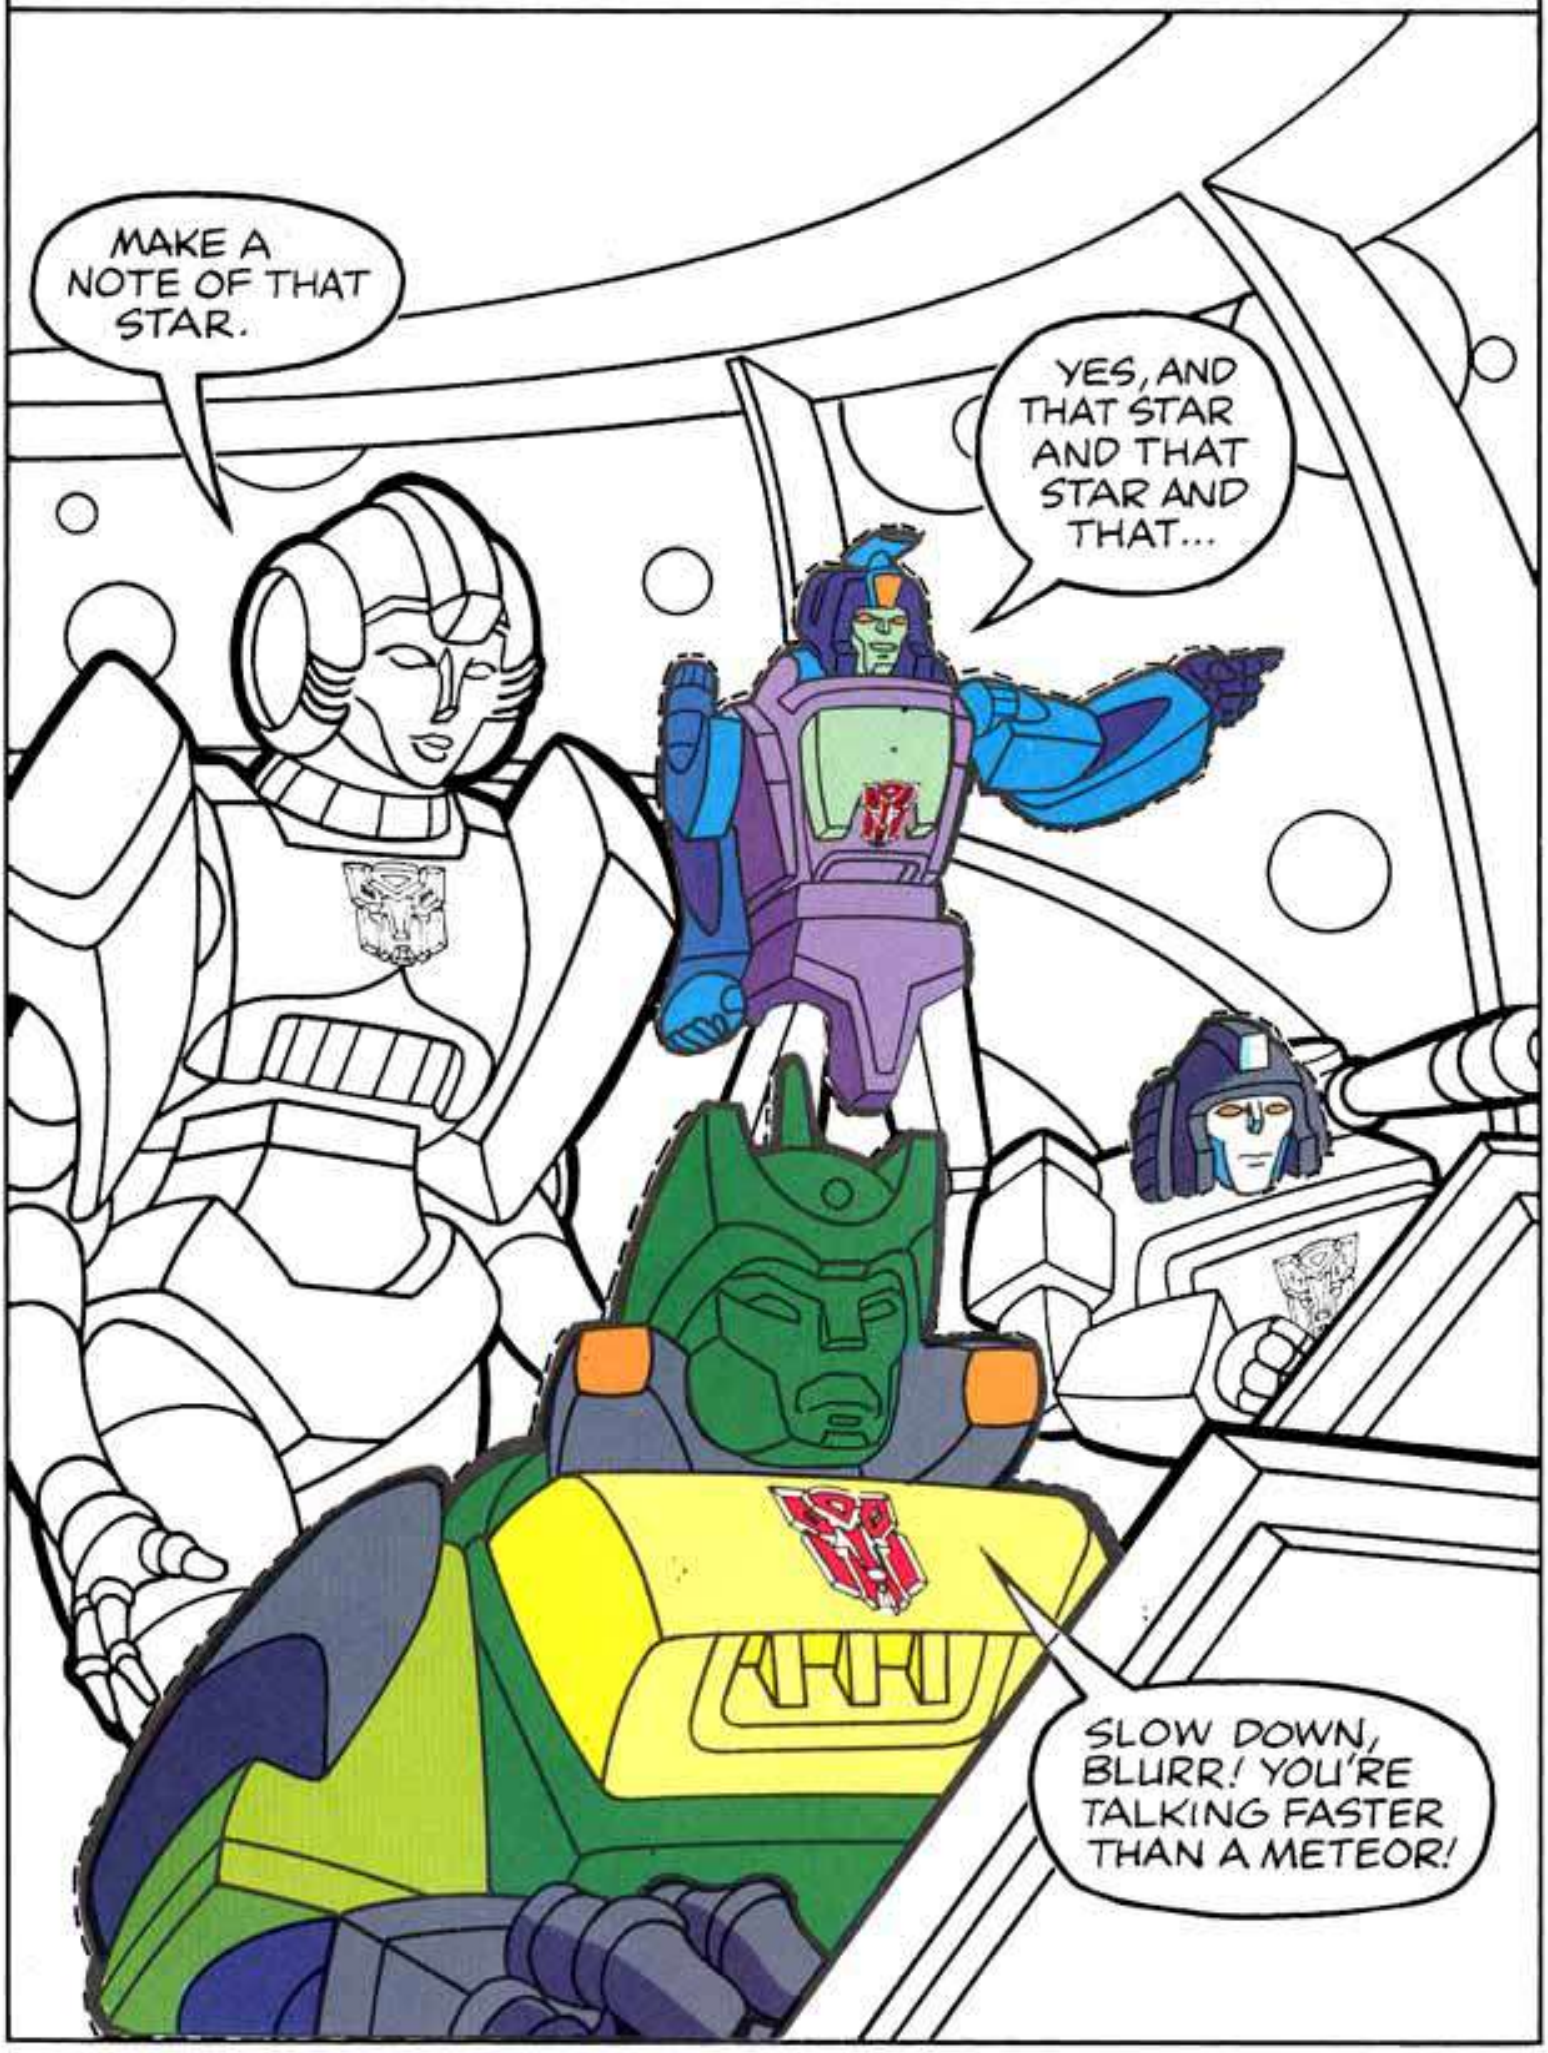
The Autobots, Arcee, Springer, Perceptor, and Blurr, are traveling through space, studying the universe.

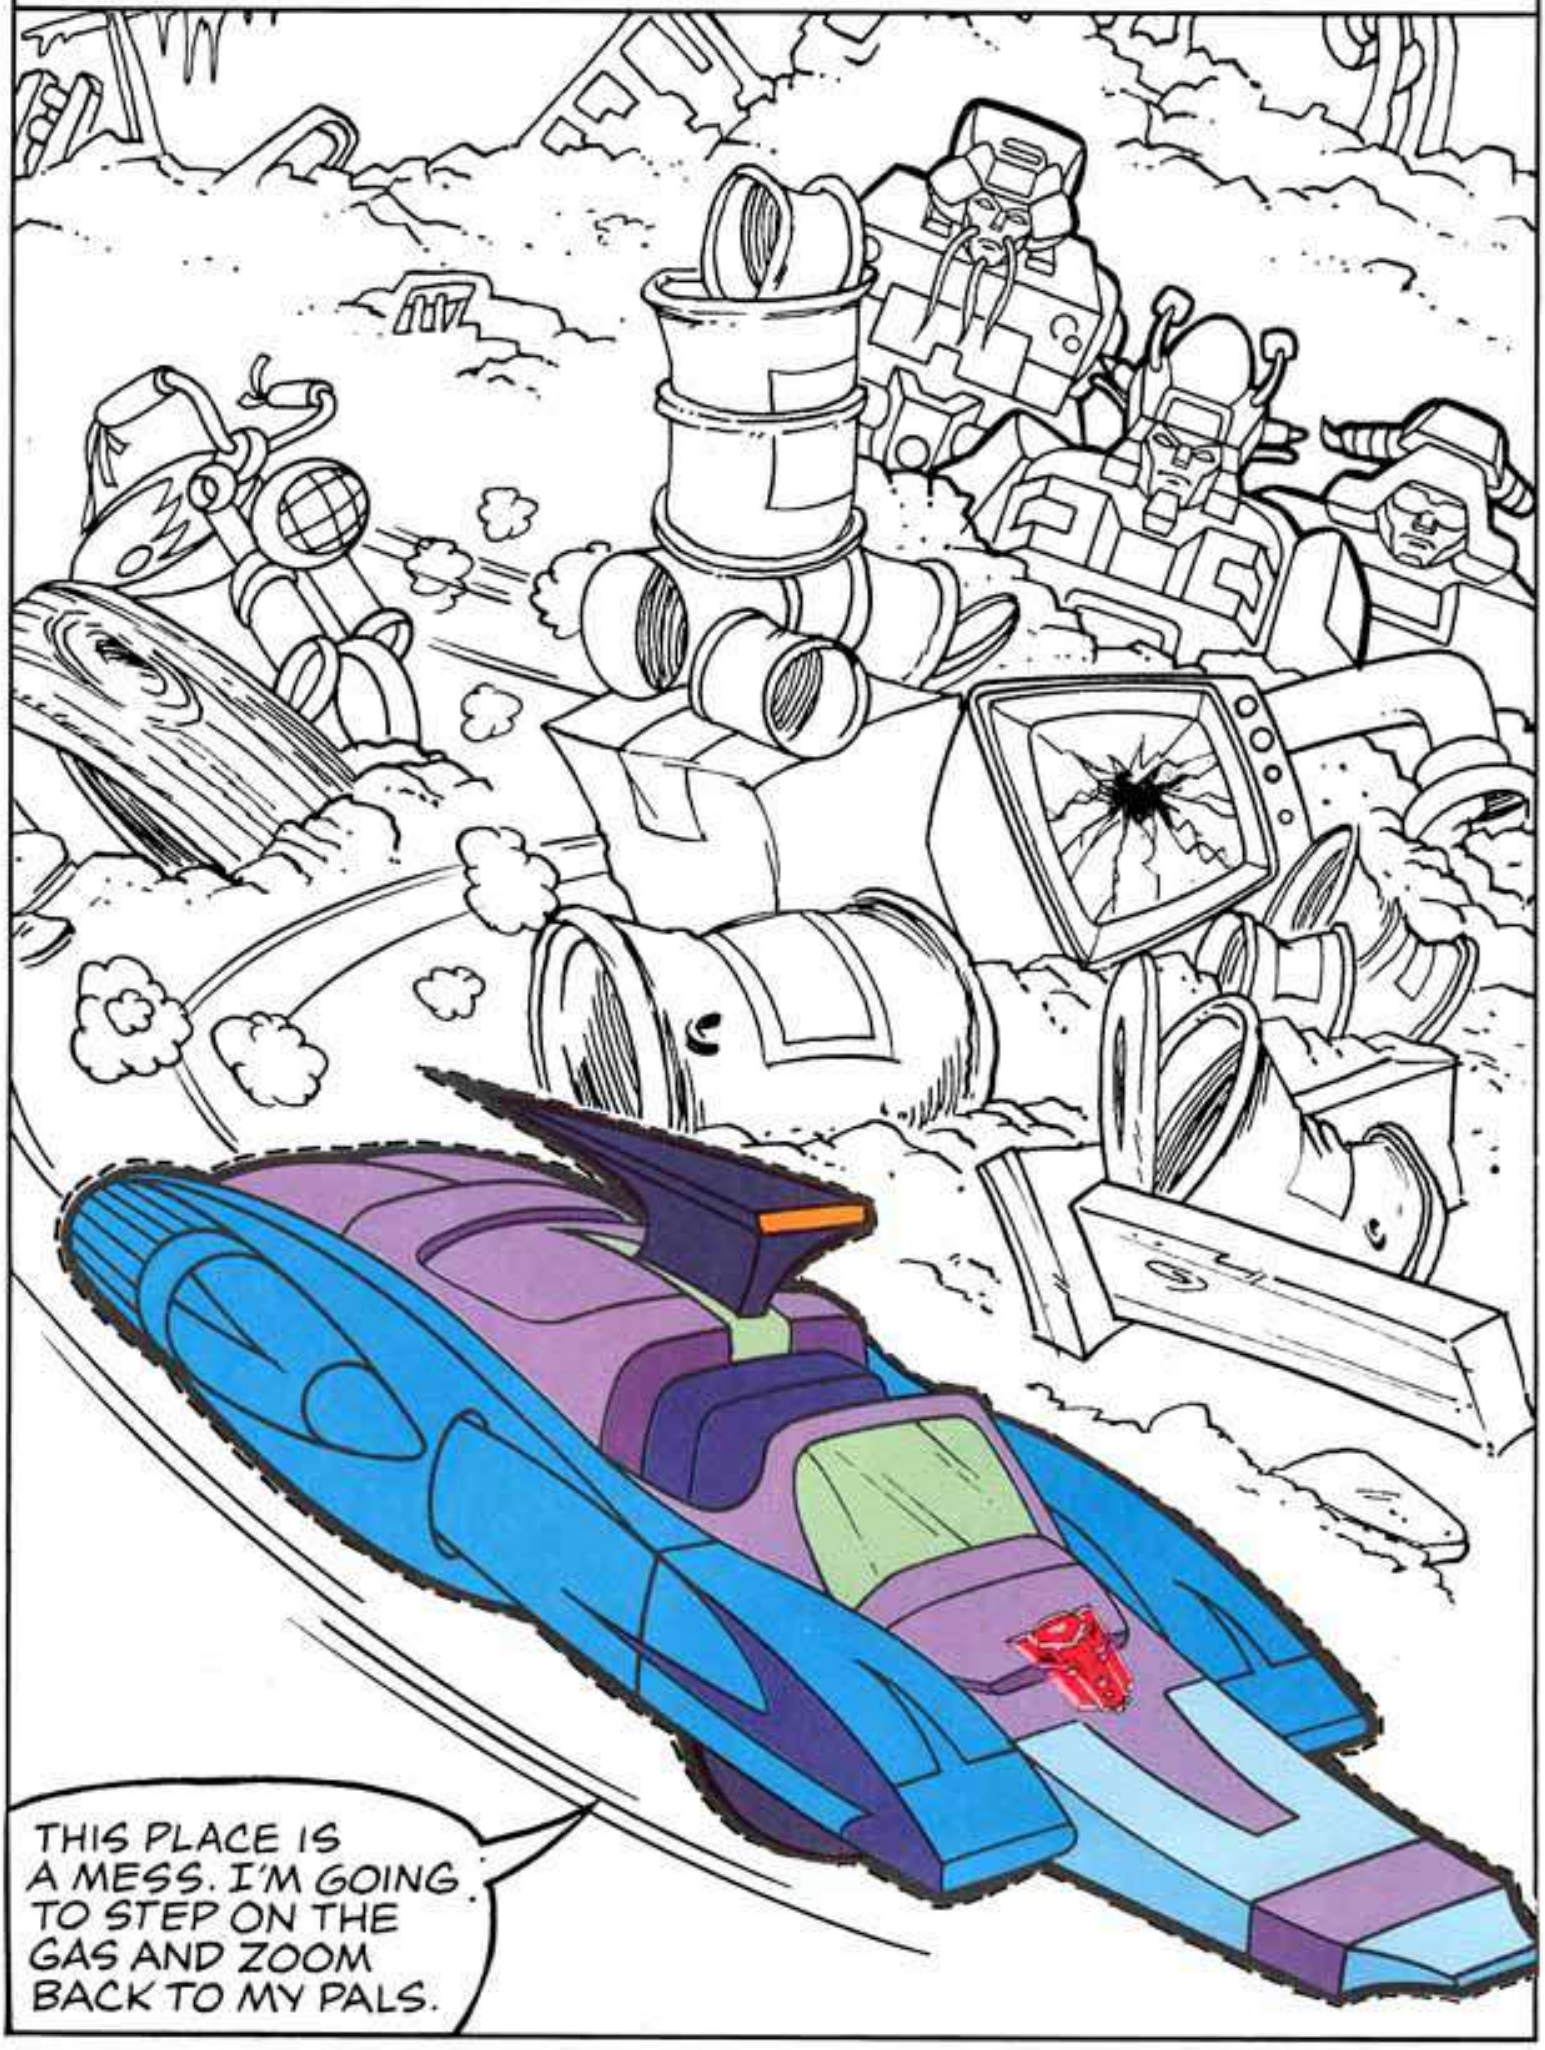


Just as the words leave Springer's lips, fiery meteors bash the spaceship on all sides!

The Autobot space shuttle lands with a thud on the surface of a strange planet.

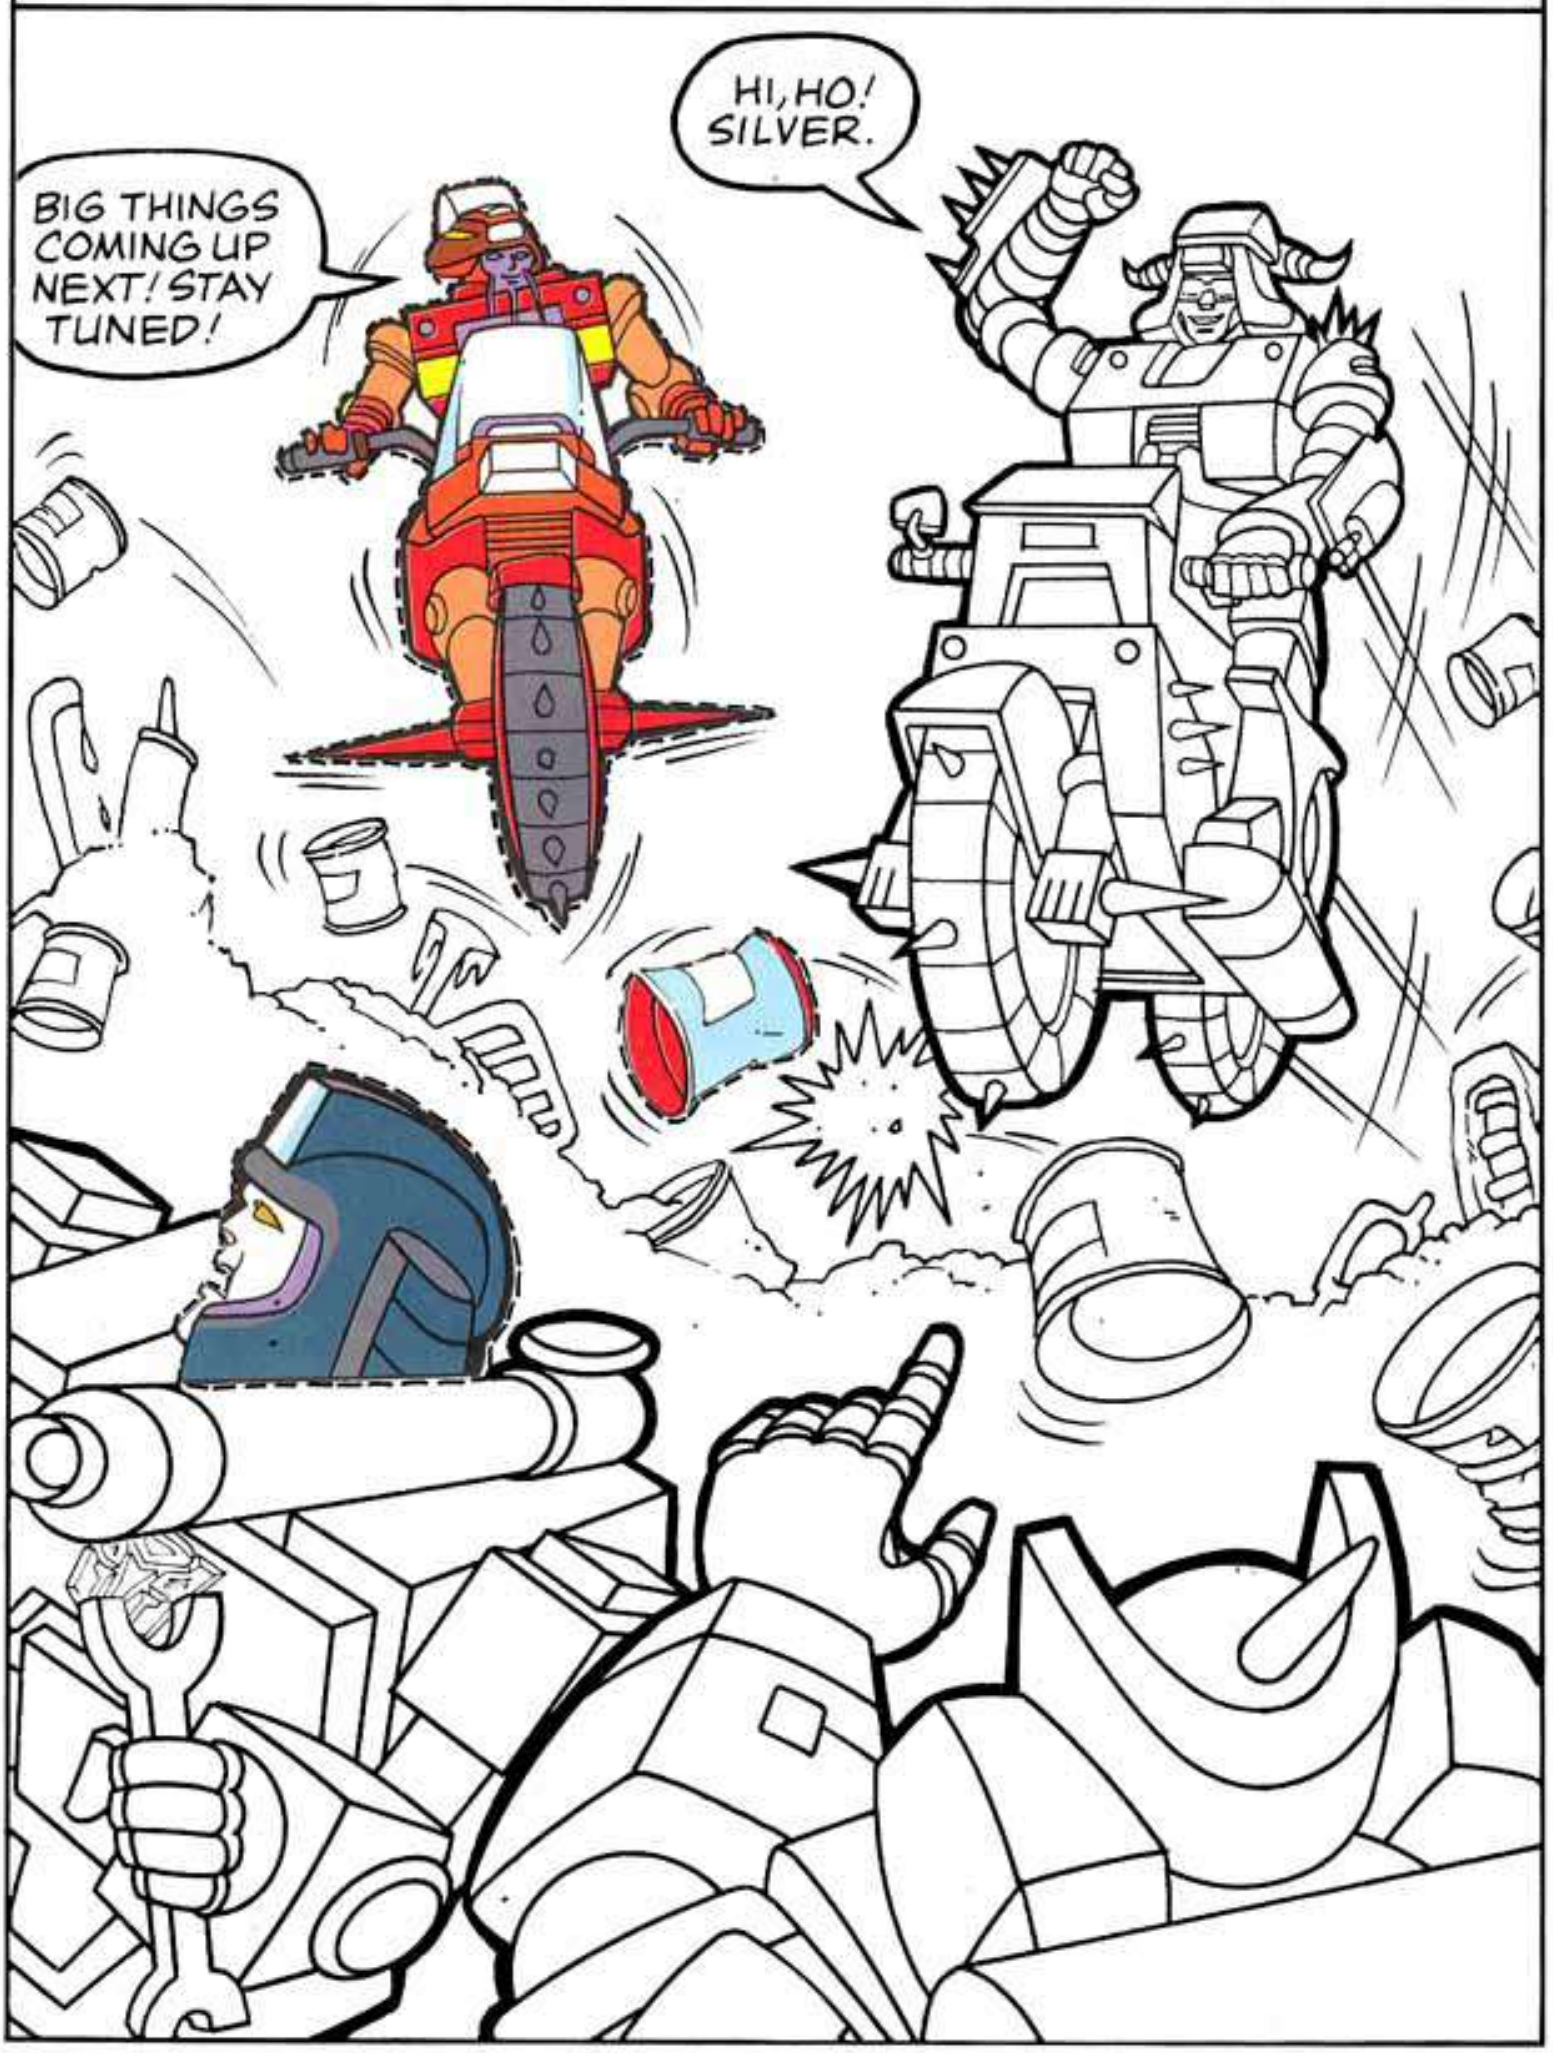
The Autobots are stuck on the planet until they can fix their shuttle. Luckily, the Junk Planet is full of spare parts.

As Blurr surveys the Junk Planet, he doesn't realize that he's being watched by the Junkions who live on the Junk Planet.



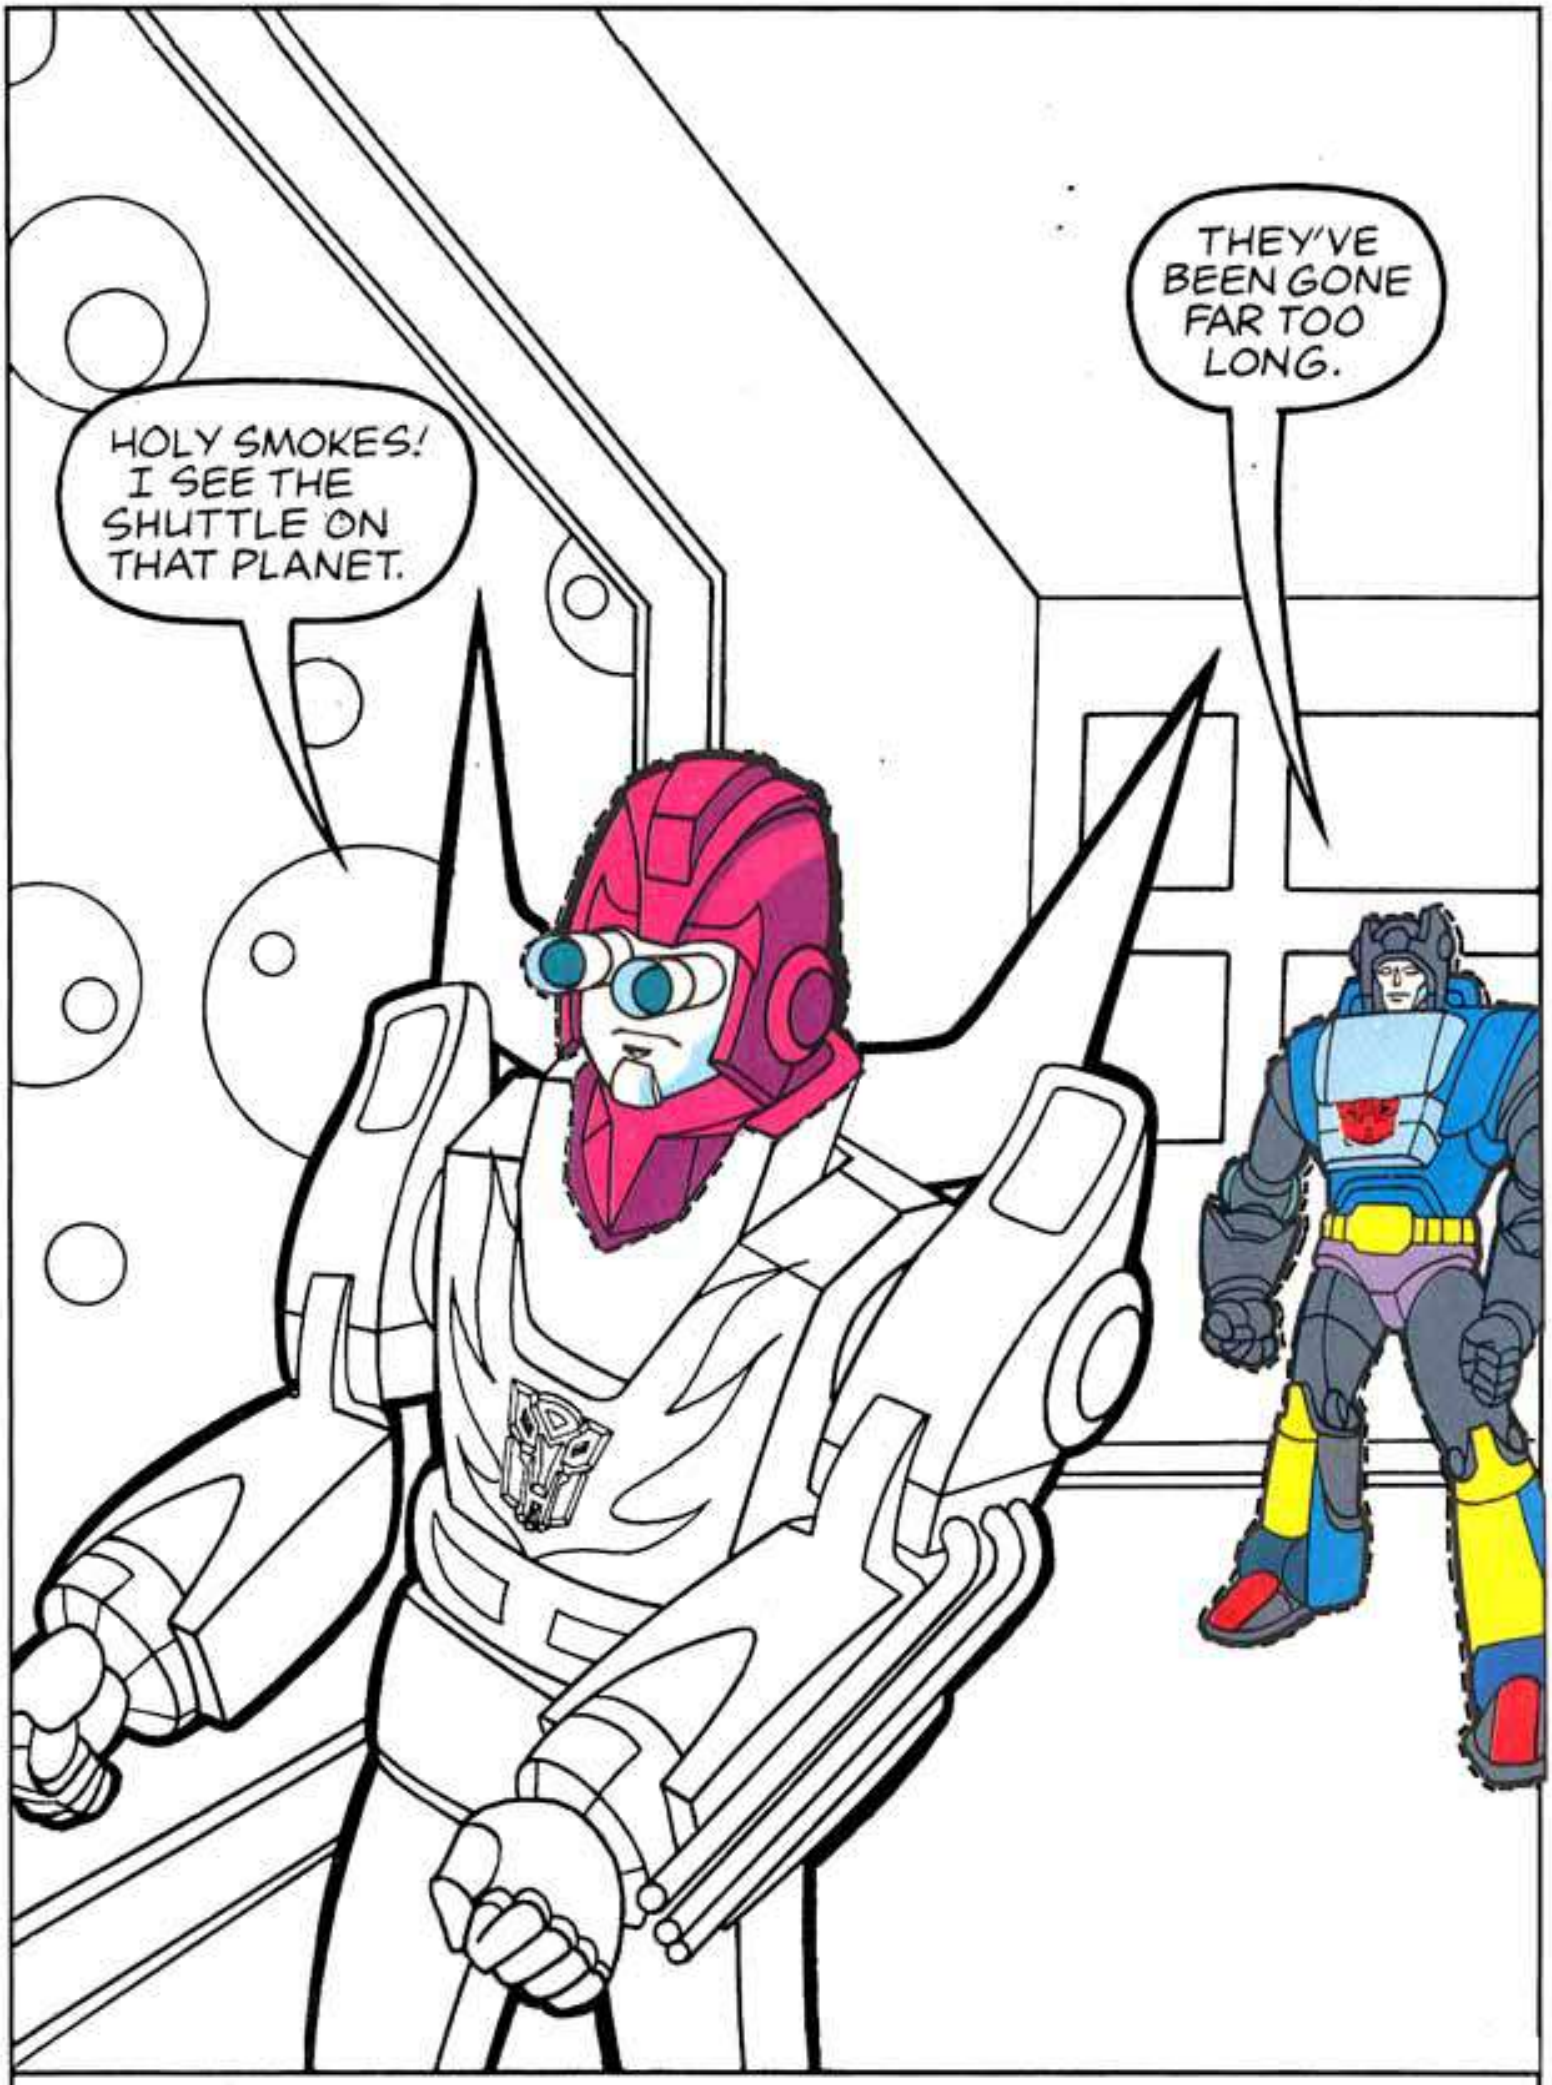
Wreck-Gar, the leader of the Junkions, is impressed with the speed of Blurr's engine. He wants it for himself. The Junkions discuss it in their strange TV talk.

The Junkions gather their forces and swoop down on the unsuspecting Autobots to get Blurr's engine for Wreck-Gar.



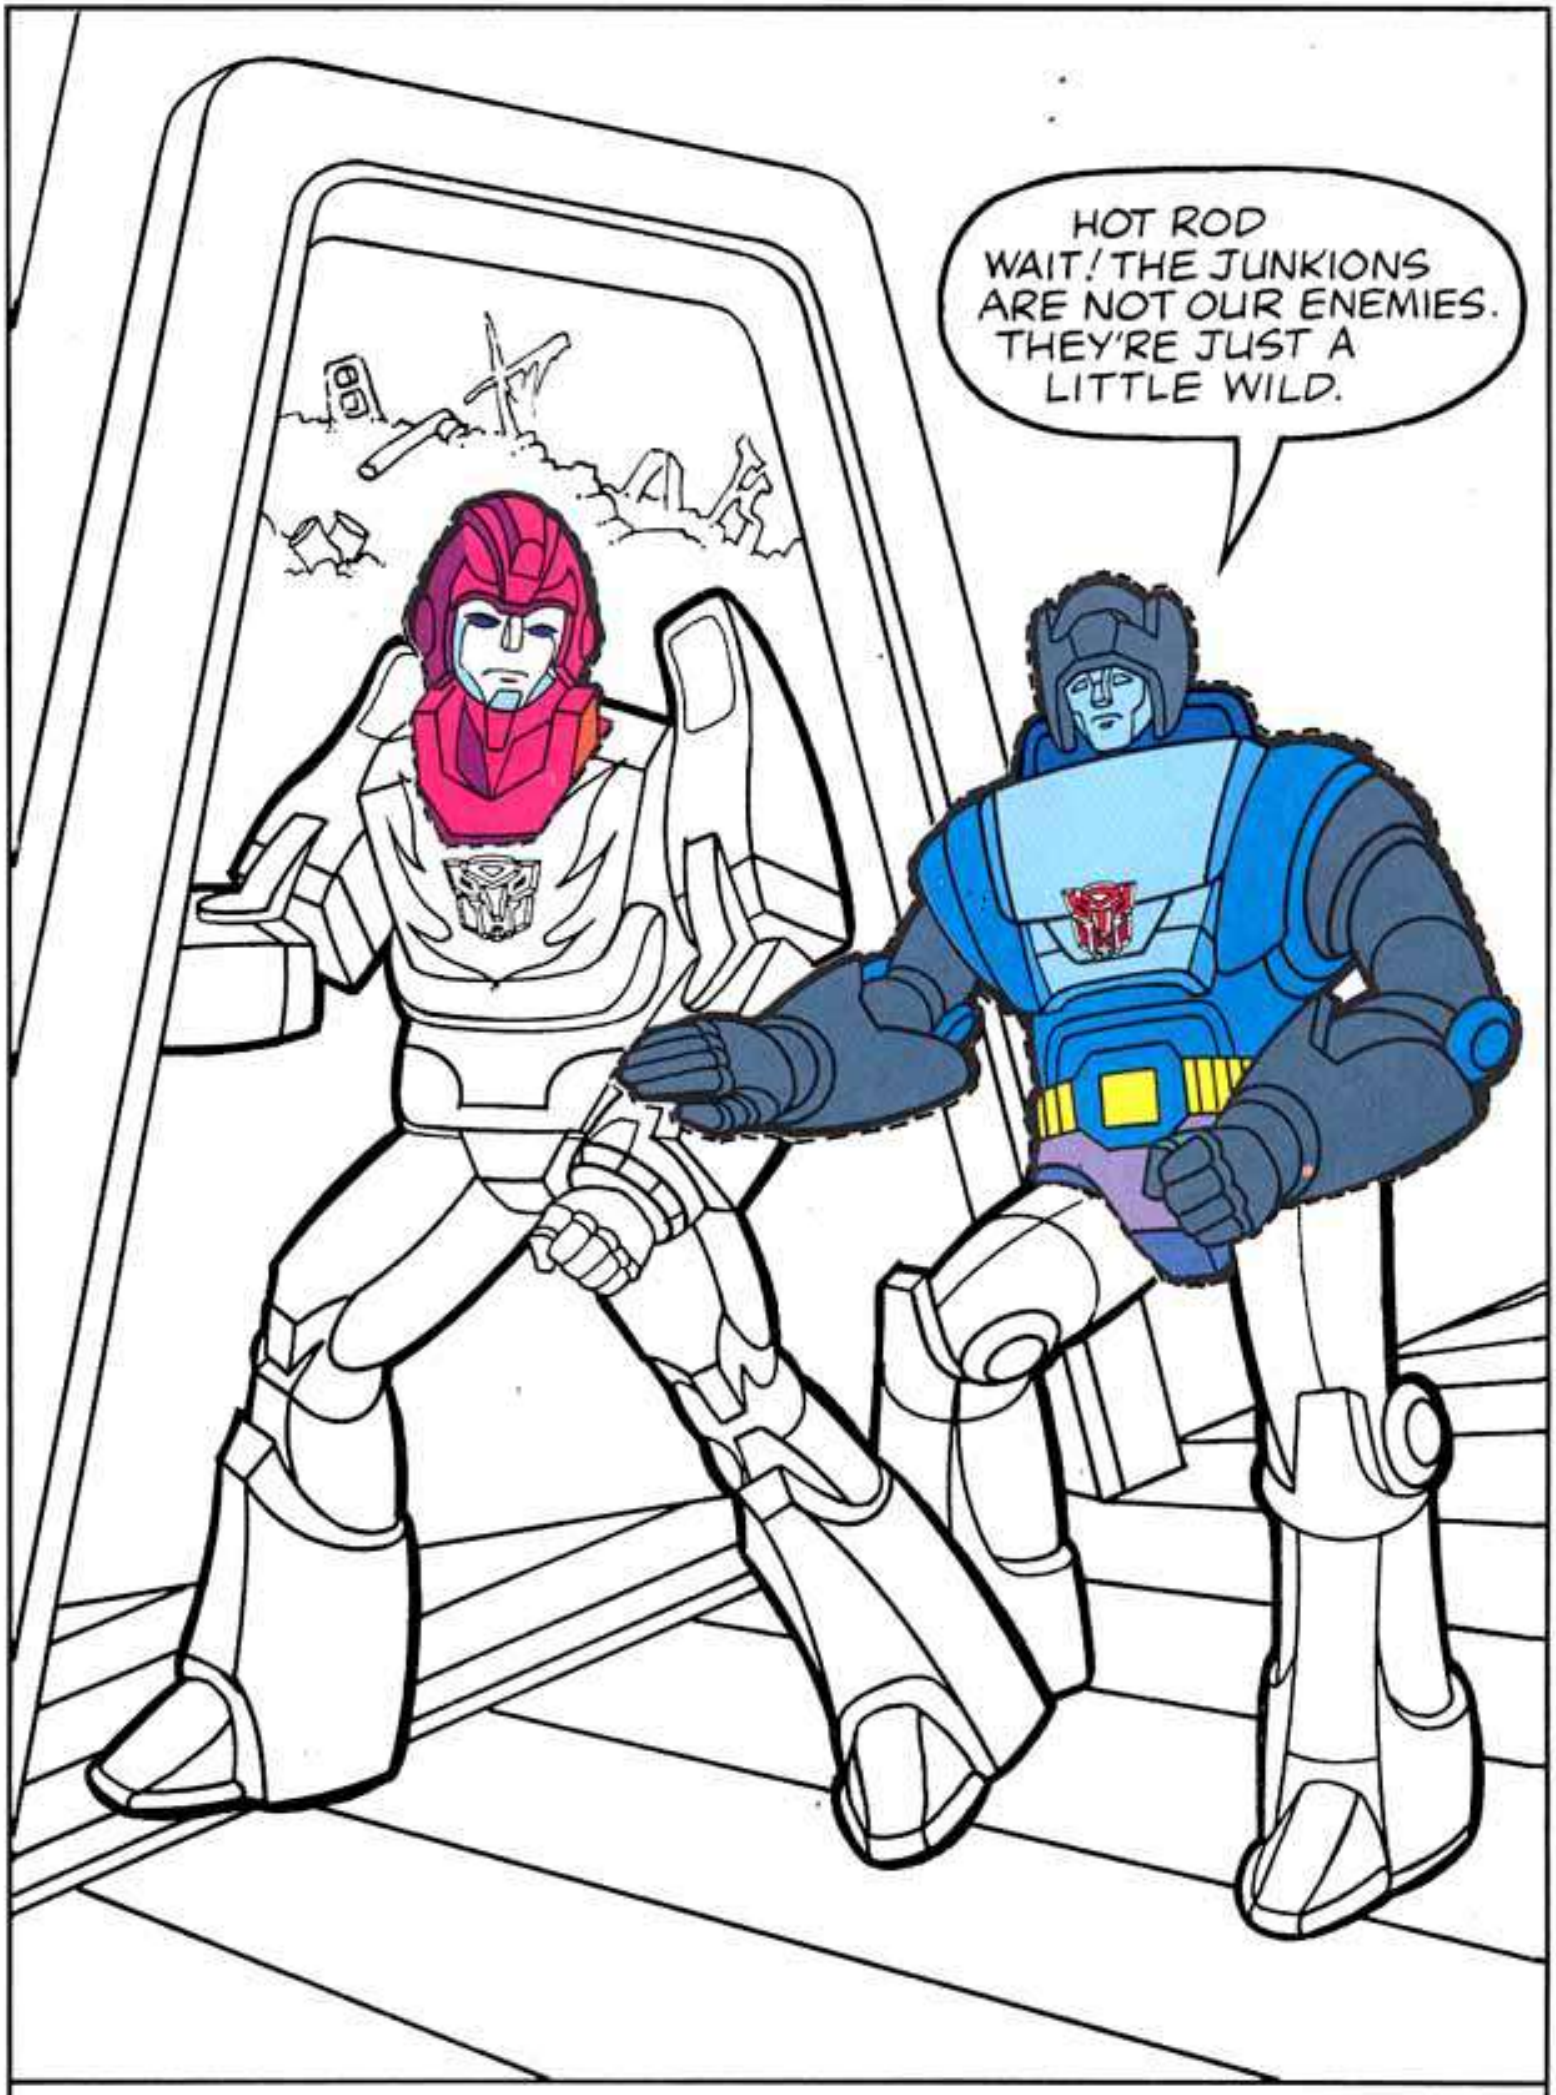
Springer springs into action with the help of his retro thrusters. He knocks Wreck-Gar off his motorcycle with a blast from his neutron plasma pulsators.

But Wreck-Gar becomes his motorcycle and his motorcycle transforms into Wreck-Gar!



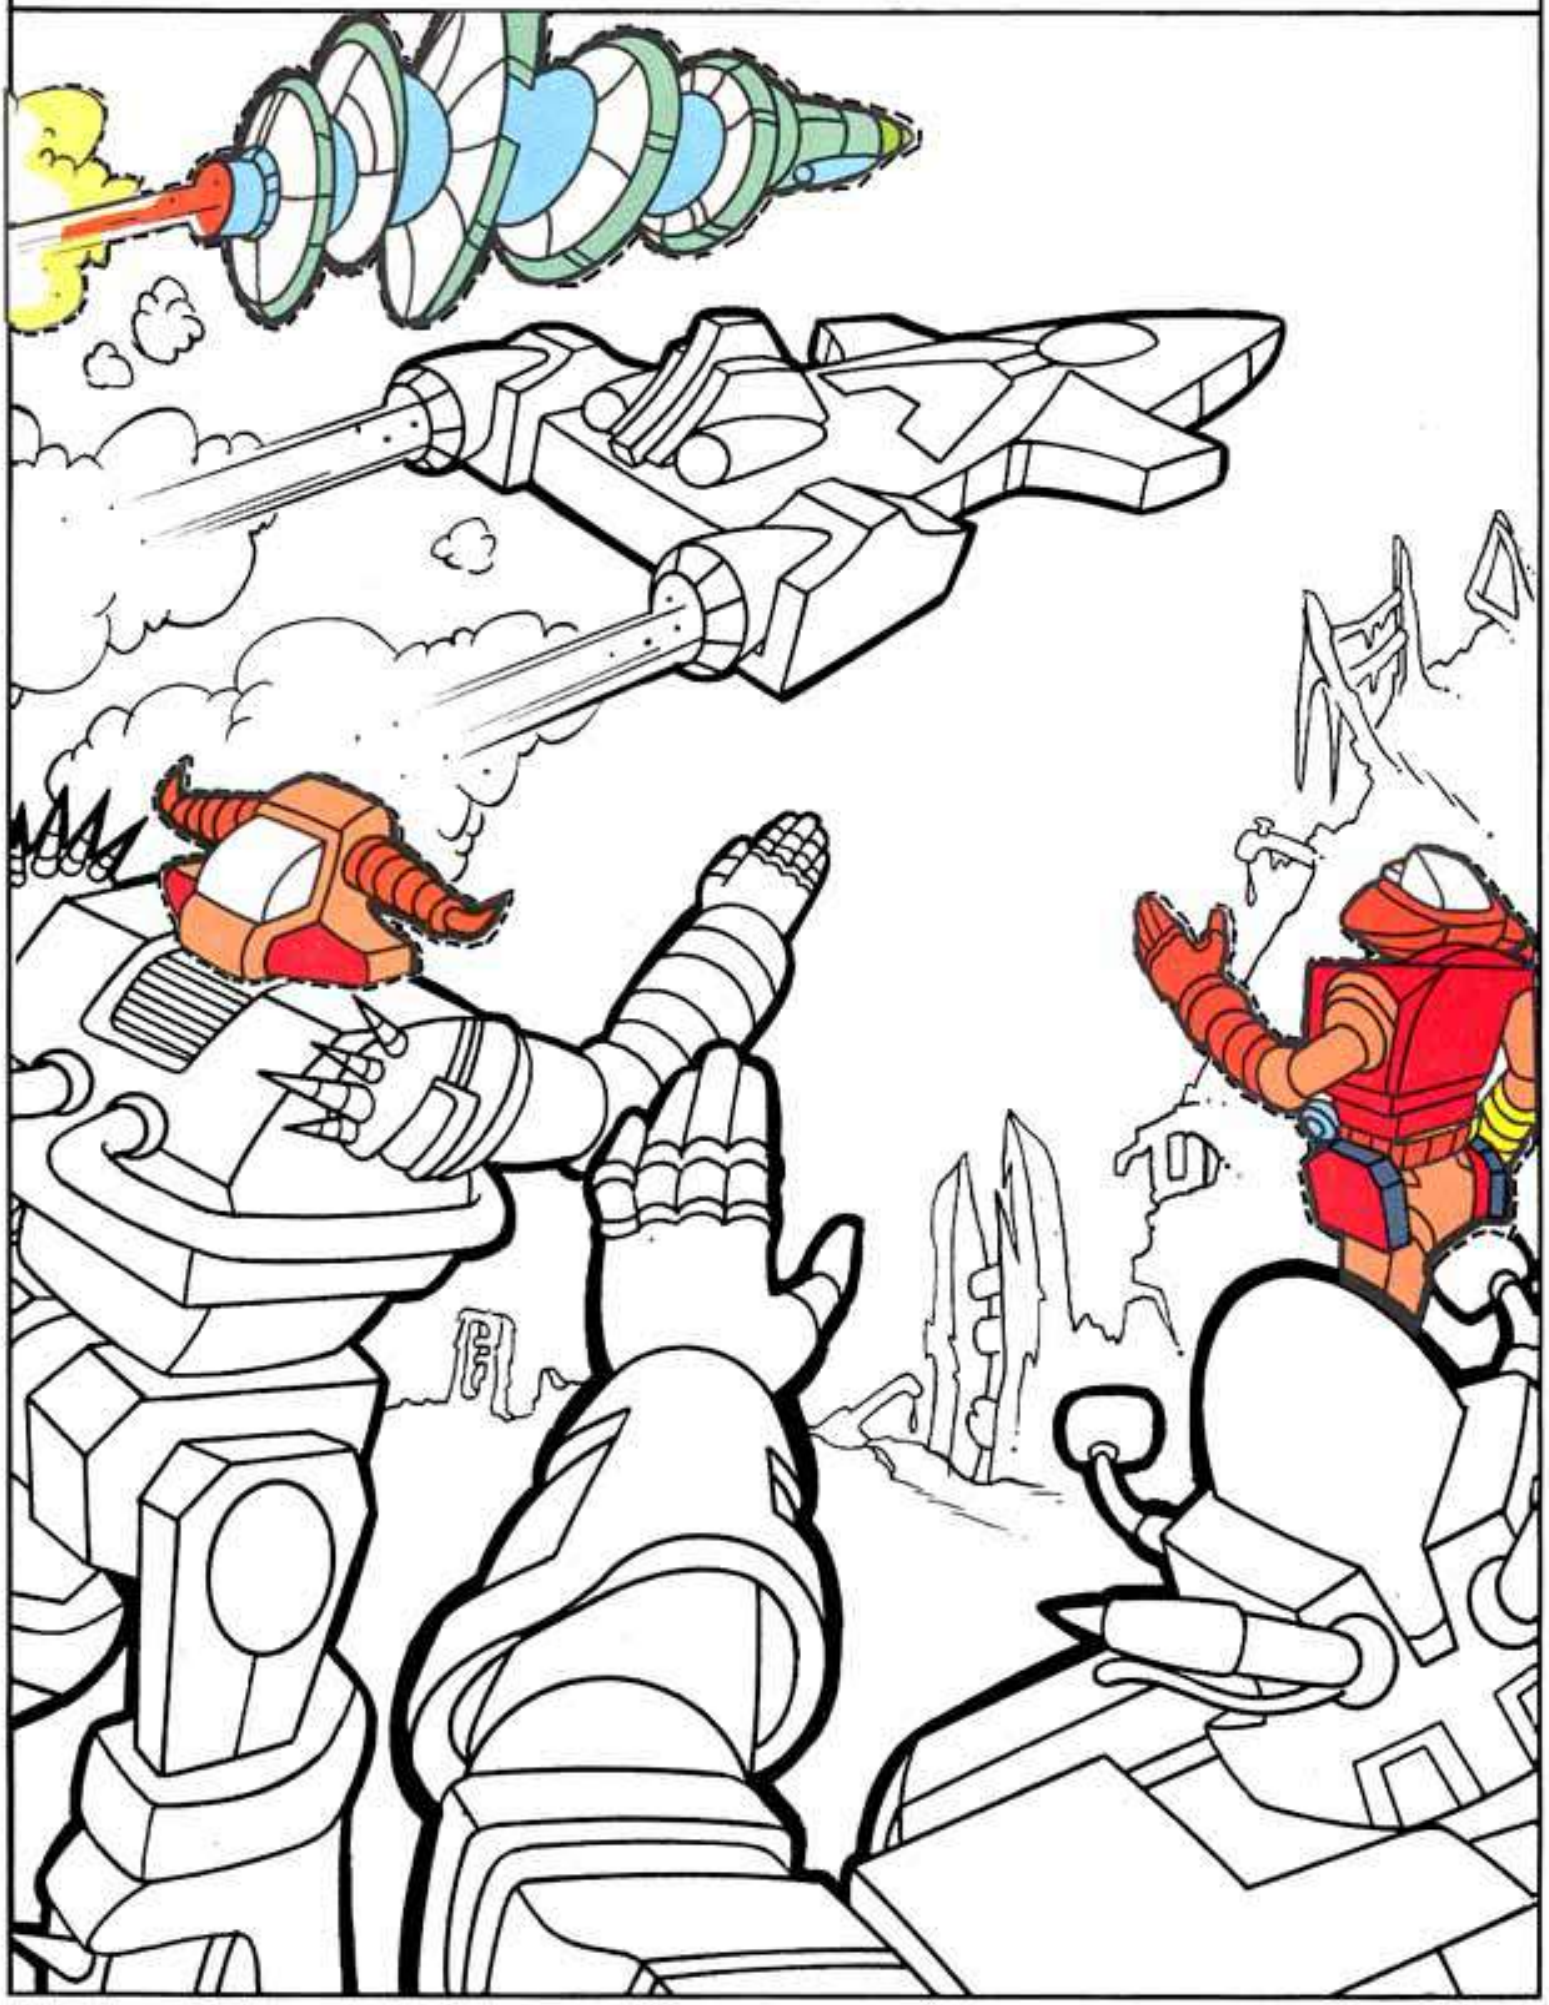
Meanwhile, Kup and Hot Rod are searching for their friends.

Kup and Hot Rod head down for the Junk Planet.



Hot Rod is ready to join the fight, but Kup stops him.

Kup raises his arm and gives the Junkions the Universal Autobot greeting, and holds out an Energon Stick as a token of friendship.

Suddenly the fighting stops. The Junkions return the greeting and accept the Energon Stick.


The Autobots and the Junkions sing the greeting together. With the Junkions' help, the space shuttle is fixed. The Junkions wave good-bye to their new friends.
